

Relative performance profiles of the complete and ablated models

All axes are oriented so that larger values indicate better performance; error scores are inverse ratios relative to the full model.